

SUBJECT: Stokes Leopold Scholar Award

Responsibility: Wildland Resources Department

---

This award is intended to maintain Allen Stoke's legacy in the college.

The award is given to a Wildlife graduate student in the Wildland Resources Department who is in the last year or so of his or her program and would benefit from a private office with a phone. The office contains the original desk, filing cabinet, a chair and framed pictures from Allen Stoke's original office in CNR. The office is designated by a plaque in the hall and the winner of this award is announced at the CNR awards banquet.

The Department of Wildland Resources will chose the graduate student recipient for this office and forward the name to the Dean's office prior to the CNR Awards banquet.